

MILKA CHRONICLES, BY VALENTINA ARAYA

Hi I'm Milka, the cat of the family Aliwen Huechucura.

I want to tell you about my experience since humans invaded my house, something they call "quarantine."

At first, they were just watching TV so I thought the market had pulled out a new anti-fleas.

Later, I noticed a strange behavior in them, they washed much more their human paws.

Then I realized it was a disease and it's contagious!!!

I understood that we were going through difficult times, so I caught a couple of mice to help the family, turning these humans into my herd.
